Self-Critique (Approximately 130 words):

For this project, I focused on creating a clear, accessible website that meets the project requirements by utilizing semantic HTML, external CSS for styling, and an organized directory structure. I made navigation and information easy to reach for all users by incorporating skip links, suitable ARIA labels, and clear headers. My approach centered on simplicity and maintainability, and I integrated feedback regarding alignment and accessibility issues effectively. If I had more time, I would have improved the design by adding responsive layouts and interactive components to increase user engagement. Furthermore, I would have done more comprehensive testing on various devices and browsers to optimize efficiency and usability, ensuring a more polished final product.
